—There will be a St. Valentine Social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ray, this evening, given by the members and friends of Court Street church. The novel feature of the social is sufficient to warrant a most interesting time for all who attend.

—One of our prominent society "boys," we understand, intends to give a number of the girls a slight ride this evening:

"There's plenty of snow for the children to play on. But the youth in a sort of a way, who dance away, when the mercury's down below zero."

—The thermometer surprised many of our people this morning, it being several degrees colder than any one anticipated. The thermometer indicated all the way from 25 to 30 degrees below zero, according to localities in the city. The first ward taking the chrome on low temperature.

Had more of the players been up to the standard, the audience would have retired better satisfied.

At the conclusion of the services at the church the remains were taken to the Catholic cemetery for interment, followed by a large number of sympathizing friends.

—If one corn crib cost thirty dollars how many corn cribs could you buy for two hundred and sixty dollars worth of shoes, when brooms are worth eleven dollars and a quarter per month? This conundrum is open to competition. A correct solution will be rewarded by a year's subscription to the Gazette. Address postoffice drawer F.

—The 14th district convention I. O. G. T., is in session in Good Templars hall in Court Street block, this afternoon and to-morrow. This evening a public meeting will be held in the First M. E. church, at 7:30 o'clock, addressed by J. F. Cleghorn, G. W. C. T. of Wisconsin. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

—Mrs. Mary E. Passenden, of the town of Porter, died at her home in that town on Wednesday, February 11th, aged thirty-seven years. The deceased was a sister of Mr. Millard F. Ide, of this city, and leaves a husband and one child to mourn her death. The funeral will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Millard F. Ide, corner of Cornelia and Glen streets, second ward, to-morrow afternoon at one o'clock. Rev. C. B. Wilcox, of Court Street M. E. church, will conduct the services. The remains will be buried in Oak Hill.

—The directors of the new Bower City rink, now being built on River street, have decided to enlarge the original building by adding forty feet to its length, making the main building the largest of any, similar structure in the state. The contract for the addition was awarded to Messrs. Bentley & Nowland.

this morning, and the contract time for the completion of the building limited to March 15th. This 40-foot addition will extend the building out over a portion of the river, resting on a pile foundation.

—People who started from Janesville, for the sunny South, last Monday evening, probably enjoyed more in anticipation, than usually falls to the lot of 20 average tourists. The little town of Palestine, no doubt attractive and full of interest to the natives, but for a winter resort, with an ordinary passenger coach for a residence, located in a snow bank just outside the corporation limit, the place becomes a little monotonous, especially after the lunch basket fails, and the warmth is all extracted from the linen duster, that was taken along to wear instead of an overcoat, when out on a dress parade in the Crescent city. Three days by rail between Janesville and Chicago, is perfectly safe; but when a man has to provide his own meat, tickets, and lodge in a car seat, the romance of a southern tour loses attraction.

—At an early hour this morning, about three o'clock, an unusual noise was heard on North Main street, and Mr. John Korman, who resides in the vicinity, recognizing a voice as that of Second Assistant Engineer Charles Horn, at once hurriedly dressed himself and went down stairs, thinking that the building might be on fire. Opening his front door he met the good natured engineer, although somewhat excited and apparently feeling the effects of an atmosphere 27 degrees below zero. In reply to Korman's question as to the whereabouts of the fire, Charles replied:—"Thunder, hasn't been a fire. There's a ten pound boy up at my house. Take a smoke!"

"Don't care if I do!" Charles went to the red topped boots to-day, and is as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

—The Gazette is extremely happy to add Mr. Storck's name to the already long list of Rock county "boys" holding honorable and leading positions in other states, and our only wish is that he may continue to prosper, and advance to a higher position on the ladder of fame.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla stops the unseasonable discharges of scrofulous Catarrh, and cures the complaint.

From Evansville.

The noted event of last week for this city was the wedding of Miss M. Irwin A. Libby and Miss Ella Gibbs, both of this city. The important ceremony was performed by Pastor Fenn in St. John's Episcopal church. We understand that two hundred and seventy invitations were issued, so it was no doubt a grand affair as all weddings are.

Dillon has come and gone and so has Mr. Ragan with his views of London, Rome and Italy, but the skating rink remains to the entire satisfaction of the young people, as we judge from the number who frequent it three evenings in the week. Rev. Sewell did make the beginning for a revival in his church, but he told his congregation one evening that the risk had four hundred visitors, while the meeting in the church parlors the same evening had only sixty-five. And so it goes, all the world on wheels and some are mighty little ones at that.

The main business of the lumber yards and saw mills, on the river, is all over, but this will soon be up. One of our lumber yards sold during the past year over two and one half million feet of lumber, besides shingles, lath, fence posts and other building material. There are two other yards in the city, and these have their share of custom. This speaks well for all class of business at least.

No liquor is sold here under a license, but sometimes indications are unmistakable, and the police are called in, and something stronger than water, and it is a mystery where they get it. So one day last week the ladies of the W. C. T. U. waited upon—well we will not say who, but we will say that it was a lady, and of course no man will do so and flip about it. Your correspondent was at Madison most of the time last week, attending the winter meetings of the various societies, which of late years make up a large part of the business of the week of the year. The ladies of that city under the lead of Mrs. Olin and Mrs. Bascom, backed up by the Doctor and President Chapin of Beloit, presented their protest against the renting of grog and gambling, and their appeal was backed up with such an array of fact and argument, that the resolution to prohibit passed almost with a unanimous vote. Secretary Babbitt voted no and his reasons were noted down by the reporters.

The meetings of the several societies are more and more interesting every year and more than usual this winter on account of the proposed prohibition. From my acquaintance with prominent men all over the state who favor the measure, I have no doubt of the passage of the bill, as presented by Mr. Adams of Dane.

Your correspondent was one of a committee to help prepare a bill, changing our present law relating to the rental of grog and gambling, and the manner of raising the tax for the same. The bill provides for all taxes to be paid in money, and expended under the direction of the town commissioners, by the third of January next, and provides for a regular system in place of our present way of a system. The committee on roads and bridges of both houses were in consultation and favor the measure, and so does every tax payer in the state who has given the matter proper thought.

DARK DAY AT LOUISVILLE.

Gas Light Necessary at 9 O'clock in the Morning—Shower of Flak.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 11.—The darkest place of daylight the citizens of Louisville ever saw visited the city just about 9 o'clock Monday morning. A brick rain had fallen for three hours, and an unusually heavy fog had enveloped the city all the morning. About 8:30 o'clock a sudden gust of wind came from the west, and a heavy mass of black cloud overspread the city. The fog increased in density, making the day as dark as night. The gas was lighted in all the business houses and residences and the streets were shrouded in an impenetrable gloom, which lasted for about five minutes. Many were better acquainted with the unusual phenomenon, and large numbers of the colored population concluded that the last day had come, and ran about in amazement and alarm. The darkness was followed by a shower of flak, which lasted twenty minutes. Small missiles were hurled about profusely in some localities after the cloud passed. The sudden shower and the appearance of flak frightened a waterman from the Ohio.

A Happy Sleighride.

Some days ago one of the public spirited citizens of Madison "pulled down his vest," and arranged a pleasant sleighride for the children of the Capital City. The Journal records the affair as follows:

Such a happy, rollicking host of children one seldom sees, as that which participated in the free ride this afternoon. Nearly 2,000 little ones in a single procession is a sight not often afforded, and yet such a one existed on our streets this afternoon. For two weeks past the matter of giving the children of the city a free sleighride has been agitated, and this finally resulted in the selection of to-day for the great event. There was a lack of numbers of rigs of the big leaved men of the city, so that when 1 o'clock this afternoon arrived, a large number of vehicles on runners were in the capital park, awaiting the loads of gleeful children, who soon began to pile in every way. The sleighs were loaded with line and rendered lively music. The loading occurred at the Pioneer hotel, thence across the park to the left. The procession stretched the entire distance around the park and overlapped considerably, its length being over a mile. It was composed of many interesting features, not the least of which were the merry songs of the children and the flying flags and banners. After a while the children began to grow impatient, and the leading string, which had been asked about an hour, the little ones were left at the place of starting or anywhere else they chose to alight. The affair was most enjoyable, and all who contributed vehicles have played the good citizen and great obligation to them, Mr. H. Bolner, who was the prime mover in the enterprise, is especially deserving of great praise.

Here is an opportunity for some ambitious Janesville man to win the hearts of the children.

ARTHUR PAIR in a Word for the Cotton Fair.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 13.—Late Thursday afternoon the cotton fair at the Cotton Fair, the report of the board of management of the New Orleans cotton exposition requesting an additional appropriation sufficient to extinguish existing liabilities, and asking authority to raise the cotton fair during the winter of 1885-86. The president indorses these requests in his letter of transmittal as follows:

A failure on the part of the management to carry out the original intent in regard to the exposition might reflect upon the honor of the United States government, since the cotton fair is a national enterprise, and the cotton fair is a national enterprise, and the cotton fair is a national enterprise.
